RELENTS 50 PER CENT ON REDDING TAXATION RAISE

State Board's Increase Only $100,000 Instead of Proposed $200,000.

Redding, July 12.—The state board of equalization has announced its decision in the matter of Redding's grand list, making an increase of $100,000 instead of $200,000 as was first proposed. The addition in the amount of the state tax to be collected from the town is therefore $150. The town's appeal from the higher figure originally fixed was presented by Town Clerk Sanford and ex-Rex representative Michael Connery and the result is evidence that they performed their mission capably.

Upon invitation of County Agent Wright, local milkmen met at the Sanford school last Friday evening to hear Mr. McDonald, a representative of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, explain and advocate a plan for the inspection, testing and proper feeding of dairy herds. To insure the adoption of the plan for a single district there are required 30 subscribers, each with a herd of not less than 10 cows. The yearly fee of $1.50 per cow and monthly visits are made by the inspection agent, who looks after sanitary conditions, advises regarding balanced rations and makes tests of individual production to determine what cows best repay keeping. Thus the "boarders" can be eliminated and the herd standard gradually improved. Among those in Redding who have joined the new district association are D. E. Sanford, Samuel Osborn, H. E. Barnes, A. G. Barnett and Bartlett Sanford. The other members are Newtown and Danbury milkmen.

The law requiring warning signs for automobiles to be placed on the highways near school buildings has been complied with in this town, but like precautions at other danger points are lacking. One of these is the sharp bend in the steep hill forming the southern approach of Sunset Hill and the other is the sharp curve at the intersection of the highway and the railroad tracks.

Three hundred comfortable chairs have been ordered for the assembly hall of the new Georgetown school building which will be completed in a few days. It is designed to use the hall for general purposes as well as school needs and arrangements are now in progress for a course of fine lectures there during the coming winter. It will be a subscription course with lectures of an instructive and entertaining character. Appropriate exercises, dedication of the building will be held in the hall early in September.

Most farmers can hear witness that the cow, usually so placid and innocuous, is unaccountably subject to brainstorms which impel her to vicious and deadly deeds. In these days she is likely to attack and gore her herdsmen, a horse that happens to be within reach or even her human boss. A tragedy of this kind occurred last Friday on the premises of John C. Read in Londonderry. Two cows which had loitered behind until the rest of the herd were in the barn, came upon a horse in the barnyard and made him the object of a savage, simultaneous onslaught, tearing each side so that he died in a few minutes. The victim was "Moose," an animal of the pony type noted for its intelligence, docility and fine qualities as a roadster.

What action to take regarding repairs on the Turney road is something of a puzzle to the authorities. That part of it lying in Easton, which originally had an outlet on a public highway, was some years ago discontinued and reverted to private ownership. The Redding section has never been legally discontinued, but the lower part is fenced off for pasture and the rest used only by owners of the adjacent property. One of these owners has made an appeal to the road contractor and the road committee, for the working of the Redding section, which remains open, and the matter is under advisement with some doubts as to the town's liability in the case.

Moses Baldwin, a very well known colored resident, died last Friday from kidney disease, aged about 80. He had been able to work until a few months ago and failed rapidly after his last illness developed. He was one of a dozen or more children of the late "Venee" Baldwin, a noted character who attained a patriarchal age and appearance befitting one with such a numerous array of descendants. Most of the latter's children were boys and there are many grand and great-grandchildren, a good part of whom first saw light in the ancient family habitation on the back road leading from Jump Hill to the Forge district in Weston. Moses was an all round butcher and during the hog killing season his services were in great demand.

The S. C. Shaw boys started this week on an extensive western trip, having Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Chicago for its earlier objective points. They will be accompanied by their grandfather, E. D. Adams, the New York capitalist. At St. Paul Mr. Shaw is to join the party and proceed then to Glacier Park, the new government reservation on the Canadian frontier. They will explore this resort on horseback and thence go to Yosemite Park. The trip will occupy several weeks.

barn and the poultry plant of his son Hermann. Philo T. Platt is the contractor for the job. The fund which Georgetown citizens raised by subscription for their very successful celebration of the Fourth met all expenses and left a surplus of $21 which has been banked to serve as a nucleus towards defraying the cost of another celebration next year.

Putnam Park was alive with happy picnickers on the Fourth, the following parties having gathered there: Advent Christian church and Sunday school, Rev. E. Z. Ellis, pastor, 200; 26 pupils of grade 4, Grassy Plains school, Edith A. Crockett, teacher; 25 pupils of grade 8, Centre school of Bethel, Miss Pater and Mrs. Floyd Wood, teachers; party of 21, consisting of Dolan and Holloran families; another family party of 25 from New Fairfield, Danbury and Beekers Brook.

Artist William Hill, who weekly provides a page of character cartoons and sketches for the Sunday Tribune, is the son of Mrs. Marietta Hill, a member of Redding Centre's summer colony.

The regular monthly meeting of the Mens club was held last evening at the home of H. S. Barnes. The speaker was Judge Robert Y. Wilkins of the New York Juvenile court. Last Sunday's New York Times contained a fine portrait of Richard Mansfield, 2d., who is to make his debut on the professional stage the coming season. His former associates of the Sanford school and others here who formed his acquaintance during the two years he was a pupil at the school will follow his career with interest.

PARKER URGES BULL MOOSERS TO FILL SLATE

Nominee For Vice President Wants Complete Ticket in the Field.

New York, July 12.—John M. Parker, Progressive vice presidential candidate, is urging a new national convention to fill the vacancy caused by the decision of the presidential nomination by Colonel Roosevelt.

Mr. Parker is inviting Progressives throughout the country to meet him at Chicago, August 5, the anniversary of the birth of the party, to complete the ticket with a man of the Victor Muddick stamp.

The vice presidential nominee has written among others to Bainbridge Colby, who led the fight against the Indorsement of Hughes by the Progressive national committee, asking his endorsement.

Mr. Parker in his letter declared:

"The revolt against the star chamber proceedings and steam-roller is greater than even the most optimistic ever felt it would be."

"An enormous number of voters will never submit to such treatment. When we consider the millions of women who will do this year for the first time, and the millions of wage earners who are deeply interested in and believe in the reforms and betterment for the people, for which we have steadfastly stood, that if we can succeed in calling a new convention, preferring to this year for the first time, the birth of the Progressive party."

"I believe that my nomination was a mistake. If we had put up, immediately upon receipt of Colonel Roosevelt's letter, a man like Victor Muddick as president, and then some strong figure from the central states or eastern states for vice president, the sacredness of our cause and our fight for humanity would have stirred the nation to its very depths."

"Not Beyond Repair."

"As soon as the Republican politicians found they would be unable to control the Progressive party they deliberately set about to wreck it. While undoubtedly badly damaged and weather-beaten, I do not think it beyond repair."

Mr. Colby, commenting on the letter, said in substance:

"Every man becomes more manifest that the Perkins-Winn program does not represent the thought or feeling of the rank and file of the party. The Progressives of the country cannot be delivered. In my opinion the majority of the Progressives, unable to support a candidate of their own, will turn to President Wilson or his record of achievement, and nothing can prevent them."

Association of Lot Owners Pledge Themselves To Build at Once.

A very enthusiastic meeting of Lordship property owners was held last evening at the Lordship Casino and a permanent building association was perfected.

It was voted to call the body the Lordship Building Association and the slogan "Twenty Houses this month at Lordship" was adopted. C. A. Phelan, was elected president; Dr. Frederick Hindsley, vice president; Robert Owens, secretary and treasurer; Dr. C. T. Gibbs, J. R. Adams and J. E. Phelan, executive committee. J. E. Phelan was chosen general manager of the association.

More than fifty Lordship lot owners attended this meeting. Fourteen signed an agreement to build at once. Eighteen others expressed themselves as being in favor of the plan, but asked for a few days for consideration. Every resident of Lordship is a booster and eager with the other is constantly alert to every opportunity looking toward the improvement of Bridgeport's ideal suburban colony.

"Uncle Billy" Doing New York With 100 Southern Retainers

New York, July 12.—"Uncle Billy" Witham is in town today with his cohorts 100 strong. That will mean a great deal more to a Southerner than to anyone else, for all Southerners know that every year "Uncle Billy" and his men affectionally call him, believe in getting away from home and bringing with him the men who have made for him that extensive financial institution in the South, known as the "Witham Banks." New York was chosen this year and the Witham fraternity arrived last night.

At 11 o'clock yesterday morning the "observation elevator" of the Woolworth building was the centre of a swirl of "Witham Bankers," as their blue badges proclaimed. "Uncle Billy," short and stout, with a grey checked suit, white moustache and goatee, a tapping the floor excitedly with his cane and vigorously chewing an unlighted cigar, directed the charge on the Woolworth elevator system. "Trustest man you ever see!" remarked one of his followers, "and the kindest hearted. Keeps you laughing all the time." (This in broad Georgian.)

Again at the observation platform "Uncle Billy" pointed out to his throng the wonders of Manhattan Island, recounting to them the story of the Statue of Liberty and telling them about Ellis Island. "That's where your father came," he said as he grabbed one of the younger members of his flock. The interned German liners, the largest clock in the world, Brooklyn, Staten Island, and the rest were all expounded. When he told them the story of the barefoot Woolworth, who came to this country penniless.

"I'd like to have a lot of statues of that man, this long," he said, measuring off a foot on his arm, "and I would put them in every Witham bank to show the boys how nickles and dimes made the merchant prince of the land. Yes, sir, the merchant prince of the land. Save your dimes. Rufe, I want you to get a booklet downstairs that tells all about it. Take it home and preach to your Sunday school."

"What do I think of the 'Deutch-land?' Well, sir, to me is the most startling event of the war. Did you read my telegram to them? I'd have sent the same to a black African."

He hitched his red knitted necktie in admiration.

"Talk of Southern hospitality, well you Northern folks are giving us the time of our lives. This from one of his men, a certain Mr. Kyle of Atlanta. 'Why do you know our money might just as well be counterfeit. They won't let us spend it.'"

A few moments later the elevator closed on the last of the party and "Uncle Billy," smiling broadly, his face aglow, waved his hand to the attendant in uniform at the platform of the fifty-fourth story.

NEW YORK AIDS NEARBY STATES IN PLAGUE WAR

New York, July 12.—Health officers said today that they were doing their best to prevent the spread of infantile paralysis from this city to other communities. Residents of infected districts here have been warned that they will encounter severe quarantine measures if they leave the city. Out of town health authorities have been asked to report any persons arriving from infected areas in New York city.

To enable other towns and cities to do this the local board of health is distributing broadest lists of addresses, where cases of the disease have been found here. The New Jersey state health department last night reported the total number of cases in the state as 60, with 11 new cases for the day. The state health department has announced that it would not debar a quarantine against New York city but would leave that to the local boards.

Many of the New Jersey towns nearest New York have not hesitated to turn back children, not only those who come from New York but those from other places. At Edgewater, a small town on the west bank of the Hudson, opposite northern Manhattan, the police not only guarded the New York ferry but established a motorboat patrol to prevent children from crossing the river in other craft.

In Connecticut and New York state towns immediately north of this city, health and police authorities are meeting all incoming trains and trolley cars and even stopping automobiles and turning back all children under 16. Mayor Mitchell, local health authorities and eminent physicians who are co-operating with them believe that every known physical precaution has been taken to check the epidemic. The physicians now will concentrate their attention upon laboratory work in an effort to isolate the germ of the disease and find a preventive or cure. In this connection there is great interest in a meeting to be held in the rooms of the New York Academy of Medicine tonight at which papers will be read by experts on infantile paralysis.

Questioned about a report that a New York physician had discovered the germ of the disease, Health Commissioner Emerson replied: "If anyone knows more about it than Dr. Simon Flexner, of the Rockefeller Institute, it's news to me and I believe I would have had a tip before now."
